Why have we established the Olympic Games?
To ennoble and strengthen sports, to ensure their independence and endurance, and thus place them in a position to better fulfil the educational role which is incumbent upon them in the modern world.»

Baron Pierre de Coubertin
Paris, 1894

The year 1994 marks the centenary of the modern Olympic Movement, which was founded by Baron Pierre de Coubertin to encourage values such as the joy of effort, mutual respect, solidarity and fair play through sport.
He hoped the Olympic ideal would help build a better world by motivating young people to strive for sporting excellence in a spirit of peace and friendship. The International Olympic Committee and Swatch are commemorating the centenary celebrations and the sporting achievements of the world's athletes over the past 100 years with this Swatch Chrono Special.

By purchasing this IOC 100 Chrono you are actively supporting the Olympic ideal and helping the International Olympic Committee and Swatch to create a fund to develop programs around the world whose goal is to get young people off the streets and involved in sport - a positive and healthy activity. As soon as circumstances permit, the IOC hopes the fund could also help rebuild the main indoor stadium in the former Olympic city of Sarajevo.

We wish to thank you once again for your personal contribution towards the achievement of this great Olympic ideal.
